

While 53% of Winnipeg's population is women, few mayoral candidates have addressed inner-city women's issues.

Yet, these issues are increasingly critical. For example, Winnipeg has the highest rate of sexual assault against women among national metropolitan areas (Statistics Canada, 2012).

If you are interested in putting women's issues into the municipal election, join us for facilitated conversation circles about municipal issues, meet others concerned about the issues, and put these questions to the candidates.
